- 321 Russia, gold ingot, wt. 82.2gms., appears to be pure gold, good very fine £3500-4000

A most unusual piece, it looks as if it would date from the 1890-1900 period. This comes from the same collection as the gold and platinum coins in this sale.

- 322 Russia, Nicholas II, 37 roubles and 50 kopecks, 1902, St Petersburg, bare head l., with titles around, rev. crowned double-headed eagle surrounded by fine inner circle of beading and by encircling legend with date and value (Y.B65; Fr.170; Bit.315; Sev.578), practically uncirculated, a major rarity made only in this one year, 225 pieces minted, seldom seen, an important opportunity to obtain this historic coin £45,000-55,000

The largest denomination struck in the modern era, this piece obviously was intended as a store of value, not a commercial issue. Only in the silver denominations may one ordinarily obtain so large and fine a portrait of the last czar, here shown lifelike with his fine beard and trim haircut, a man of relative youth who would never see middle age. This coin offers one of the finest metallic impressions of Nicholas to be found.

- 323 Russia, Nicholas II, proof 25 roubles, 1908, St Petersburg, bare head l., with titles around, rev. crowned double-headed eagle surrounded by fine inner circle of beading and by encircling legend with date and value (Y.A65; Fr.171; Bit.314; Sev.501), an important rarity struck in only two years, a lovely specimen, frosted devices, nearly as struck, sharp and pleasing £80,000-100,000

Krause & Mischler states only 25 examples struck.

The denomination was unusual, the second largest gold issue of the era, obviously not struck for wide circulation but more as stores of value in a time of increasing political instability. Less than a decade after this coin was created, the imperial era would come violently and suddenly to an end with the murder of the czar and his family.

392 † Henry VIII, third coinage, sovereign, Southwark, mm. E/S (1544-1547), king enthroned facing, holding orb and sceptre, rose below, rev. crowned shield of arms with lion and griffin supporters, HR below (S.2291; N.1825), very slightly double-struck, bright, good very fine, scarce £9000-10,000

While obviously struck several times, a feature so commonly seen on this handmade issue, this coin has an outstanding appearance, rather remarkable detail in the small portions of the king's face, and a wonderful round flan. As always, the legends are difficult to read. It can be regarded as one of the classics of the hammered gold era. For a fascinating account of the debasement of the coinage which had been so nearly pure during Henry's father's reign, see Sutherland's commentary on pp. 133-136 of his 'English Coinage'. During the period 1544-1547, when this coin was struck, the sovereign dropped from its former 23.5 ct. purity to 22 ct. and then 20 ct. fineness, literally the beginning of 'modern' inflation in England.

- 393 Henry VIII, third coinage (1544-1547), testoon, Tower mint, mm. pellet in annulet, crowned bust facing, rev. crowned rose between crowned h-R (S.2365; N.1841), about extremely fine for issue with an attractive portrait £5000-6000

- 395 Edward VI, third period, fine sovereign, mm. ostrich head (1551), crowned figure of king enthroned facing, holding orb and sceptre, portcullis at feet, rev. shield of arms at centre of full-blown rose, 15.03gms. (S.2446; N.1926; Schneider 701), this handsome and exceedingly rare coin was purchased by Jonathan Rashleigh at the famous E. J. Shepherd sale in 1885. Subsequently repaired in the right hand field it is otherwise a full and well struck piece, almost very fine and with a clear portrait. It is believed that only six examples are in private hands £28,000-30,000

- 401 † Mary (1553-1554), fine sovereign, mm. pomegranate, dated MDLIII, crowned figure of queen enthroned facing, holding orb and sceptre, portcullis at feet, rev. shield of arms at centre of full-blown rose (S.2488; N.1956), a lovely example of this rarity, extremely fine and struck on a full broad flan, legends bold and clearly readable, impressive reverse with the Tudor rose well detailed in all aspects and the central shield crisp, the punctuating annulets on both sides most distinctive, Mary's portrait giving more than a hint of her sullen nature, the lower folds of her dress typically lacking sharpness but the diapered background and the ornamented inner festoon encircling the monarch on her throne delightfully clear, a few tiny scuffs but overall certainly an exceptional example of this massive gold coin £15,000-18,000

Well known as a tragic heir to the throne when her famous father passed into history, Mary Tudor lived too short a time to issue many coins. Despite this, her gold coins are all of delightful design (and truly rare). A close-up metallic portrait of her occurs only on the profile-issue silver groat. Here we see not the rarest of her golden portraits but certainly the most impressive, the very first of the “fine sovereigns” that continued under Elizabeth but, in truth, became one of the shortest-lived of all England’s gold coinages.

- 402 Philip and Mary, shilling, 1554, full titles, busts face-to-face, crown above, rev. crowned, garnished shield of arms, mark of value above (S.2500; N.1967), a couple of light scratches across Philip's head, some weakness on reverse, otherwise good fine £400-500

- 403 Philip and Mary, sixpence, 1554, busts face-to-face, crown above, dividing date rev. crowned, garnished shield of arms (S.2505; N.1970), a couple of small edge cracks and a small dig on Philip's chest, almost extremely fine for issue, with superb portraits, very rare this choice £1250-1500

- 404 † Elizabeth I, sixth issue, fine sovereign, mm. tun (1592-1595), crowned figure of queen enthroned facing, holding orb and sceptre, portcullis at feet, rev. shield of arms at centre of bull-blown rose (S.2529; N.2003), extremely fine, well balanced with tiny details of the queen's face in evidence as well as a fairly sharp strike on both mintmarks, the flan full and well impressed overall, usual slight softness below the orb in lower folds of the dress, the Tudor rose and central crest quite pleasing, some fine but light scuffs £15,000-18,000

A splendidly conceived, golden representation of majestic power in an age when symbolism was the best advertising, this issue combines one of the best metallic engravings of the Tudor crest opposed by the classic forward-facing monarch holding the very implements of power, crowned as head of state, and behind her the unusual diapered and bejewelled background to the throne. Examples such as this must surely have been saved intentionally as the finest mementoes of their age and sovereign.

- 405 † Elizabeth I, sixth issue (1583-1600), pound, mm. woolpack (1594-1596), crowned bust l. wearing elaborate dress, rev. crowned shield of arms, ER at sides (S.2534; N.2008), extremely fine or better, full flan, pleasing portrait with excellent legends and shield, reverse mintmark typically flat or of shallow engraving, a few faint lines and only tiny abrasions £7000-8000

One of the more regal metallic portraits of Elizabeth I, dignified in appearance here as she advanced in age, the regained wealth of the nation now showing in her jewels and fine dress, the crown of large size above the reverse crest symbolic of the queen's importance as a monarch who recaptured the devotion of her subjects following the previous short but disastrous reigns.

- 406 Elizabeth I, sixth issue, gold crown, mm. tun (1592-5), crowned bust l. (B&C 7C), wearing elaborate dress, rev. crowned shield of arms, ER at sides (S.2536; N.2010; B&C H13), good very fine, scarce £3500-4000

- 407 Elizabeth I, milled coinage (1561-70), half pound, mm. star, crowned bust l., rev. crowned shield of arms (S.2543; N.2019), a little creased, and scratches before bust, otherwise good very fine, very rare £3000-3500

- 408 Elizabeth I, second issue, shilling, mm. cross crosslet (1560-1561), crowned bust l., rev. long cross fourchée (S.2555; N.1985; B&C 3C), slight weakness on reverse, otherwise almost extremely fine with a good portrait, rare thus £300-350

- 409 Elizabeth I, third and fourth issues, sixpence, 1567/6, mm. long lion/short lion, crowned bust l. (B&C 4B), large rose behind, rev. shield of arms, date above (S.2562; N.1997; BC&W. LN-1A/LN-c), fair, extremely rare, only two traced £250-300
* ex Colin Cooke collection

- 410 Elizabeth I, seventh issue, crown, mm. 1 (1601-1602), crowned bust l., with orb and sceptre, rev. shield of arms over long cross fourchée, wt. 30.00g. (S.2582; N.2012), dark toning, almost extremely fine with an excellent portrait, very rare thus £6000-7000

- 411 Elizabeth I, seventh issue, crown, mm. 1 (1601-1602), crowned bust l., with orb and sceptre, rev. shield of arms over long cross fourchée (S.2582; N. 2012), face weak, otherwise about fine £400-500

- 412 Elizabeth I, seventh issue, crown, mm. 2 (1602), crowned bust l. (B&C 9A), with orb and sceptre, rev. shield of arms over long cross fourchée, wt. 29.78g. (S.2582A; N.2012; BC&W.2-1/2-a), small scratch on forehead, some tooling behind head, toned, good very fine £6000-8000

Certainly one of the finest known for this very rare mintmark.

- 413 Elizabeth I, seventh issue, halfcrown, mm. 1 (1601-1602), crowned bust l. with orb and sceptre, rev. shield of arms (S.2583; N.2013), some flan cracks, otherwise very fine £1400-1600

- 414 Elizabeth I, seventh issue, halfcrown, mm. 1 (1601-1602), crowned bust l., with orb and sceptre, rev. shield of arms (S.2583; N.2013), a little weak on French shield otherwise very fine for issue with a good portrait £1200-1500

- 415 Elizabeth I, cast silver pattern groat, 1601, VNVM A DEO DVOBVSVSTINEO, crowned bust three-quarters l., wearing ruff and elaborate gown, rev. AFFLICTORVM CONSERVATRIX, crowned monogram, date at sides (BMC.8; N.2050), good very fine, rare £300-400

Δ; Elizabeth I, sixpence, 1572, mm. bulbous and 3-pointed (obv.) ermine, mixed grades (8) £60-80
- 417 Elizabeth I etc., necklace made from 15 coins: Ireland, Henry VIII, harp fourpence, mm. trefoil HR; Ireland, Henry VIII, 3 crowns groat; Elizabeth I, sixpence, 1562, mm. pheon; Elizabeth I, sixpence, 1578, mm. Greek cross (2); Elizabeth I, sixpence, 1580, mm. Latin cross; Elizabeth I, milled sixpence, 1562, mm. star; Burgundian double petard; Elizabeth I, sixpence, 1561, mm. pheon (large flan); Elizabeth I, sixpence, 1572, mm. bulbous ermine; Elizabeth I, sixpence, 1562, mm. pheon; Elizabeth I, sixpence, 1569, mm. coronet; Charles I, sixpence, mm. - 419 Elizabeth I, a lot (16) of pewter tokens and reckoning counters all recovered from the River Thames in the 1980s (Mitch. 4569/4571(2)/4582/4584/4598/4613/4614(2)/4627/4641/4656/4679/4681/4690/4701), fair or better (16) £100-120

- 420 † James I, second coinage, rose ryal, mm. key (1609-1610), crowned figure of king enthroned facing, holding orb and sceptre, portcullis at feet, rev. shield of arms at centre of full-blown rose (S.2613; N.2079), a delightful example, extremely fine or better, full broad flan with the legends sharp in detail, usual slight softness in parts of the rose, the portrait of unusually fine detail showing a sensitive depiction of the king with all features clear, and his regal gown well detailed throughout £6000-7000

As it evolved from its initial conception under Mary and Elizabeth, the largest gold issue of the realm became more sophisticated during this reign, and was now called a ryal instead of a sovereign but the intention was the same - a gigantic trade coin loaded with emblematic majesty. The key mintmark appeared in the middle of this coinage period. The king's portrait is invariably termed "facing" in the tradition of those of the prior female rulers, but in fact it is more artistic and tilted slightly to give a finer image, an improved "perspective." It is proof that Renaissance numismatic art in England did not reach its zenith under Elizabeth.

- 421 James I, second coinage, spur ryal, mm. escallop (1606-7), crowned figure of king with sword and shield stg. facing in ship, rev. rose at centre of ornate cross, crowned lions in angles (S.2614; N.2080), may have been skilfully repaired but very fine with red toning, very rare £6000-8000

This mintmark is not represented in Schneider.

- 422 James I, second coinage, unite, mm. lis (1604-1605), crowned second bust r., holding orb and shouldering sceptre, rev. crowned shield of arms, IR at sides (S.2618; N.2083), as struck, mint state, very rare £2500-3000

McCammon [Currencies of the Anglo-Norman Isles], believes the Bank of Guernsey/Bishop, de Jersey & Co. started trading around 1800. Abraham Bishop and Henry de Jersey were registered as silversmiths in 1804, again under the name Bishop, de Jersey & Co. As a private bank they were the first in Guernsey to issue their own banknotes. However, when it came to coins, legislation in the form of an Ordinance was passed on the 2nd October, 1809 "making illegal any tokens, and specifically those recently introduced by private Individuals", thereby forbidding the crown to circulate. As the result of this, most were destroyed. The bank failed two years later in 1811. Henry de Jersey, who was the Seigneur of St. Jacques, married his partner's daughter, Mollie. He is believed to be the same Henry de Jersey who succeeded his father, also Henry de Jersey, as Tenant of Jethou, 1781-1800. In 1787 when John Wesley travelled to Guernsey to preach, he stayed at Mon Plaisir, Henry de Jersey's house.

Major (Retd) David Poll

David Poll was born in Romford, Essex in 1947 and was educated at Brentwood School until his family moved north to Liverpool, where he attended Merchant Taylors' School, Crosby. After reading Civil Engineering at Salford University, he went on to become a Chartered Engineer working in local government, where he rose to become Principal Officer in Highways Maintenance for the London Borough of Havering.

Meanwhile he had also joined the Territorial Army, initially in the Royal Army Ordnance Corps, rising to the rank of Major in the Royal Engineers as a Bomb Disposal Officer and the Technical Quartermaster. He then had the opportunity of transferring to his Territorial Army regiment following his retirement.

Major Poll's coin collecting started in the early 1960s. This was when he first met Roger Shuttlewood, who became his best friend for the next 35 years until Roger's sad death. Roger, who already had a vast and greatly respected knowledge in English numismatics, first introduced David to hammered coins. This interest grew over the years that they spent attending the various London markets together.

Financial circumstances forced the selling of David's earlier collections, but this, his best, was started in the 1980s. It is a student collection primarily of English hammered coins, plus some Scottish, Irish, Anglo-Gallic and milled crowns. The wide range of the English hammered coinage initially resulted in limiting his collection to representative specimens of the various varieties and also to collecting along themes (such as mint marks for Elizabeth I, mints for Edward I, etc.), but to these he has then added many other interesting specimens. He has also put together a group of Roman denarii and antoniniani representing the various emperors.
